What is the biggest difference between dating in the US and dating in London?

I've been shockingly surprised in the similarities between the two, but in London, women seem more receptive to the concept of "making the first move."

Top three pieces of dating advice?

Be true to yourself from day one; don't be scared to speak out about your beliefs and views; and remember that the only person to make you feel inferior is yourself.

What's your favourite... book?

Shantaram [by Gregory David Roberts] because it is a beautiful glimpse into every walk of life.

Beverage?

Red wine.

Quote?

"Be kind, for everyone you meet is fighting a battle you know nothing about."

Holiday destination?

Skiing in Colorado – that's where I met my fiancé and because it is a very freeing and stress-relieving place.

Whitney Wolfe

Whitney Wolfe, 26, from Utah is the founder of dating app Bumble, which launched in 2014. She was also a co-founder of the internationally recognised dating app Tinder. Unlike Tinder, Bumble puts the women in charge of making the first move – and they have 24 hours to do so. We find out what makes this young entrepreneur tick

Artwork?

A portrait of me, my mum and sister that Ashley Longshore painted. She is the most amazing artist and human on the planet. And those are the most important people in my life.

Do you think it is better to be feared or respected as a leader?

I think they go hand in hand but I think it's good to be kind but never have that be mistaken for weakness. Fear does not equal respect. It might on the surface but not behind closed doors.

What could you not live without on a desert island?

Is Wifi a fair answer? Red wine, and my loved ones.

How can we encourage more women to get into the tech industry?

Stop assuming that it is impossible and stop letting the unknown be a fear from getting there. You would be shocked how accessible the tech industry has become over time.
